

Sinkhole Loss Cosmetic Restoration

After a property has been remediated from sinkhole activity, the project is far from over. The effects of the activity often times cause foundational shifts that can create a number of cosmetic challenges within the interior and exterior of the home. Exterior plants and grass may have been removed in order for the technicians to gain access to areas of the home, pavers or concrete may have been removed and screen enclosures may have been opened in order to gain access for large equipment.
